

South Yorkshire Police and Crime Commissioner

CASE STUDY

Fire stopping

Dr Alan Billings is the South Yorkshire Police and Crime Commissioner. It is his job to give the public a say in how they wish to be policed and produce a strategic South Yorkshire Police and Crime Plan, setting out the priorities for the South Yorkshire Police.

As part of the Commissioner's plan Neo won the contract to deliver a rolling programme of fire protection works for the district.

Job Details	Location	Contract Value
 A rolling programme of passive fire protection works	 50 security sensitive buildings in the South Yorkshire Policing District	 Approximate value of the works: £500k

South Yorkshire Police and Crime Commissioner

CASE STUDY

Neo carried out a programme of fire protection works including the design, supply, installation, connection, wiring, testing and commissioning of all mechanical and electrical installations on 50 security sensitive buildings located at various sites in the South Yorkshire Policing District.

We worked closely with the client throughout the COVID-19 pandemic to provide maximum office space for reduced staff numbers throughout the duration of the project. Works were released in batches of five sites per month on a priority basis. To keep disruption to a minimum, works were undertaken through a programme of night-time and weekend working patterns.

Due to the security sensitive nature of operations, rigid vetting and data exchange protocol was essential. Stringent management of the fire stopping, joinery, mechanical and electrical teams as well as strict performance specifications, handover and commissioning procedures were required to reach full compliance with SYPCC protocols and FIRAS certification standards.

From contractor engagement stage through to award of contract and completing works, I have been very impressed with the level of professionalism Neo have shown. Their commitment to carrying out high quality works remains very positive.

NICK CLARK, PROJECT MANAGER

Neo Property Solutions, Neo Court, Knowsthorpe Lane,
Cross Green Industrial Estate, Leeds, LS9 0PF